IALC Directory of Language Schools

Quality Language Schools Worldwide

www.ialc.org

welcome

Alexandra Borges de Sousa, IALC President

Founded in 1983 by forward-thinking language school owners, IALC has grown to 113 members teaching nine languages in 24 countries. Each school teaches the official language of its country and is carefully selected among the leading language schools worldwide. A thorough process of inspections and self assessments as well as the sharing of good practice make IALC schools a top choice for study travel agents and students alike.

This directory brings you the current portfolio of IALC schools, showcasing a wide choice of languages, locations and types of schools, where every student can find the most suitable program, knowing they will get high quality teaching and services.

Each year we bring our members and agents to a unique study destination to share two days of work and socializing at the IALC Agent Workshop. I am especially proud to be IALC President and for my school, CIAL Centro de Linguas, to be hosting the Workshop in 2013, as my father was one of those founders of IALC 30 years ago. In April, we'll be celebrating 30 years of IALC in Lisbon and we hope to see you there.

Alexandra Borges de Sousa
IALC President

about IALC

For 30 years, the International Association of Language Centres has been a trusted reference for study abroad agents, individuals and organisations seeking high-quality language training in the country where the language is spoken

brief history

IALC was founded as a membership association in 1983 in response to the emergence of large school chains. The owners of eight top independent schools in Europe and North America first met in Madrid in June 1983. Over the next six years, they were joined by leading schools from Europe, Asia, Australia and the Americas. The Constitution, Code of Ethics and Bylaws were approved in 1988 and IALC was incorporated in Ireland in 1990. The IALC Workshop first took place in 1984. Over the last 30 years, IALC has refined its accreditation to meet the needs of agents and diverse language learners studying in all corners of the globe. Today we embrace 113 of the world's best independent language schools. We have won the STM Star School Association award three times and been shortlisted every year since the awards began.

quality assurance

As a minimum, an IALC school must be established for at least three years, legally constituted and independent of a large chain. It must teach the official language of its country as a main activity, provide full student support including accommodation and activities, and offer lessons at levels meeting the needs of its clients throughout the year. It must also meet strict detailed criteria in all aspects of its operation. IALC schools are regularly inspected and are bound by the IALC Code of Ethics. Each also has its own quality development plan. Through seminars, workshops and an online forum, IALC members share best practice and support each other. The IALC Complaints Procedure exists for anyone who has a problem with an IALC member school that cannot be resolved directly.

The IALC Code of Ethics appears in full on www.ialc.org

The IALC Organisation

IALC is managed by an Executive Board of five volunteer IALC school directors and an executive director, supported by a small team at its Secretariat in Canterbury, UK. There are also regional directors and committees for quality assurance, best practice, membership and marketing.

the IALC workshop

The IALC Workshop brings together IALC schools, study travel agencies and selected exhibitors for a productive business meeting in a different study destination each year.

The unique IALC Workshop attracts directors and decision-makers year after year. A vast choice of language and other programmes from high-quality language schools across the world, combined with fam trips, seminars, great networking and time to build real relationships, make it a productive and cost-effective proposition for even the busiest agent! With around 300 delegates, our exclusive workshop is co-hosted by an IALC member school, with evening parties that capture the magic of the location.

“Only top quality schools and small enough to get to know everyone”

Barbara Santur, Destinazione Lingue, Italy

“The schools are very good, well selected, very different and creative as well, coming up with new things.”

Jos Kerkhof, Study Travel, Netherlands.

“Meeting decision-makers makes the workshop more valuable”

Sergey Alyoshin, Petro-Lingua, Russia

“Definitely the best workshop”

Max Wey, Boa Lingua, Switzerland

Taronja School

Valencia

TARONJA School is different. It's located in one of the best streets of Valencia and offers the highest standards of teaching combined with a complete weekly activities programme. "We want to offer more than a language course... We want to offer you a LANGUAGE EXPERIENCE".

Valencia, a Mediterranean city with a population of 800.000 inhabitants, beautiful streets and excellent weather, gives students a great opportunity to enjoy a rich variety of cultural and leisure activities and live some unforgettable experiences.
